

Author

Moyé, Maximilian (Rostock DE) | M.Sc.

Orthopädietechnik Scharpenberg/Universitätsmedizin Rostock - Prothetik/Orthetik

Title

The electronic aid to counteract the occurrence of spastic movements

Coauthors

None

Summary

-

Introduction/Basis

-

Scientific Method

-

Implementation

-

Conclusion

-

References

Zettl, U., Eichstädt, K., Ellenberger, D., Flachenecker, P., Friede, T., Haas, J. et al. (2018). MS in Deutschland: Symptome und Behandlungsdefizite. NeuroTransmitter, 29(6), 42 - 44.

Sandroff, B. M., Wylie, G. R., Sutton, B. P., Johnson, C. L., DeLuca, J. & Motl, R. W. (2018). Treadmill walking exercise training and brain function in multiple sclerosis: Preliminary evidence setting the stage for a network-based approach to rehabilitation.

Reich, D. S., Lucchinetti, C. F. & Calabresi, P. A. (2018). Multiple Sclerosis. N Engl J Med, 378(2), 169-180.

Filli, L., Sutter, T., Easthope, C. S., Killeen, T., Meyer, C., Reuter, K. et al. (2018). Profiling walking dysfunction in multiple sclerosis: characterisation, classification and progression over time. Sci Rep, 8(1), 4984.

Holstiege, J., Steffen, A., Goffrier, B. & Bätzing, J. (2017). Epidemiologie der Multiplen Sklerose – eine populationsbasierte deutschlandweite Studie: Zentralinstitut für die kassenärztliche Versorgung in Deutschland.

Yi-Ning Wu¹, Hyung-Soon Park², Jia-Jin Chen³, Yupeng Ren⁴, Elliot J. Roth⁵ and

Li-Qun Zhang^{6,7*}, Position as Well as Velocity

Dependence of

Spasticity—Four-Dimensional

Characterizations of Catch Angle

P. Bülow, W. Jüssen (2006). Beschleunigen Sprunggelenkorthesen die Rehabilitation zentral-motorischer Gangstörungen bei älteren Patienten? NeuroGeriatric 3 (4): 183 – 191